And he's just re-pointed his house in a personal best time of ...

FIDE have apparently incorporated the Olympic anti-doping code into their statutes from the beginning of 2001. This is not unconnected with the wish for chess to be recognised as a sport. Now 'sport' is defined in my dictionary as a recreation or pastime. That doesn't make chess a sport, of course. All dachshunds are dogs, but all dogs are not dachshunds

It's about money, really, as we all know full well. Sports get funding. Chess is no more a sport than line dancing, and line dancing can most charitably be described as physiotherapy for the drinking man. Or woman. 'A' level geography, digging a cess pit and worming the cat are all sports too, by the way. Particularly worming the cat, for which the training involves years of self denial.

Meanwhile, back at the dope peddler's, "up to four normal size cups of coffee in a six-hour period" are apparently OK. That puts your editor in permanent breach, I reckon, but please don't take me to the Rules Committee.

So Redditch reach the final of the Barrington without playing a game. One bye; 2 walkovers. Both times they were drawn at home, but it's a long way to Redditch. The final will be at a neutral venue, so Lady Westminster will probably turn up.

I like this. Forty one players registered for one four-man team, and Hotels go and play a forty second. Well, it all adds to the gaiety of nations (though not in the biblical sense, obviously).

9 B-N2	Q-Q4	P-N3 obviously allows BxPch.		27 BxQP	Q-R4
Getting castled looks a better bet.		21 R-B7	B-K2	Q-N1 is no better.
10 Q-B2	N-K5	22 N-Q2	P-B4	28 RxBch	K-Q2
11 B-Q3	P-KB4	aiming the Q at the undefended		(28 ... RxR? 29 N-N7ch)
12 N-K5	P-QR3	pieces on the Q-file. Double-		29 QxKPch	KxQ
13 P-KB3	N-KB3	edged at best, with the K central.		30 B-KB5	1-0
14 P-K4	PxP	23 N-K4	PxP
Retreating the Q may be better.		P-B5 must be better.
