

Dud: I'd rather like to be the Queen. I tell you what I'd do. I'd give the MBE to Mrs Woolley and I'd give Aunt Dolly the Order of the Garter for services rendered to humanity.
 Pete: Your Aunt Dolly could do with a bit of decoration, couldn't she, Dud?

The BCF wants to change its name, and has published a (rather poor quality) list of possibilities, one of which is BCF. This is all very fashionable, of course. One of the first was Guinness, which turned itself into Diageo. Most of us turn it into urine. More recently, Norwich Union decided to call itself Aviva, for which super wheeze it paid branding consultants about a million quid. It then turned out that down the road from NU's Head Office there was a dress shop called Aviva, the owner of which had thought up the name over a cup of coffee one morning.

If the Marriage Guidance Council can turn itself into Relate, perhaps the BCF should call itself Promote. I propose a purely nominal charge for the massive amount of time and sheer bloody effort that have gone into producing this startlingly original suggestion.
